Synopsis

At the edge of the English Channel, on the Côte d'Opale, near a hamlet, its dunes and marshes, there lives a strange fellow who gets by somehow, poaches, prays and builds fires. A girl from a nearby farm takes care of him and tenderly feeds him. They spend their time together, with the wide scenery of dunes and woods as the scenic backdrop. They mysteriously engage in private prayer at the pond's edge, where the devil is lurking....the vagrant hounds out the evil from the village haunted by the devil.

About the director

Bruno Dumont was born in Bailleul, France. He has taught philosophy and directed more than forty commercials, shorts and documentaries. He is the director of La vie de Jésus (97), Humanité (99), Twentynine Palms (03), Flandres (06), Hadewijch (09) and Hors Satan (11), all of which played at the Festival. Humanité and Flandres were both awarded the Grand Prix at the Cannes Film Festival.
