

Edited:

How big is your love (Kedach Ethabni)

Algeria, Morocco/2011/118 mins/Arabic/Colour/35 mm

Director Zohra Zamoum

DOP Rémi Mazet

Editor Karine Olivier

Music Nourdine Alane, Franck Sforza

Designer Adel Kacer

Cast Racim Zennadi, Nadjia Debbahi-Laaraf, Abdelkader Tadjer, Nourredine Alane, Louiza Habani, Mohamed Lotfi Draiaia, Loubna Boucheloukh

Synopsis

In modern-day Algiers, Adel, an eight-year-old has been sent to his grandparents for the weekend after a quarrel between his parents, Rachid and Safia. Adel was supposed to stay with his grandparents for one weekend. Soon Adel feels like he's lived there forever. Attempting to grow closer, his grandparents involve him in their everyday lives. His grandmother introduces him to her everyday life while his grandfather opens the great world of animals to him in this poignant and touching story about childhood and love.

About the director

Born in 1967 in Algeria, Fatma Zohra Zamoum is a director, producer and writer whose acclaimed short films include "The Ball of Wool" and first feature documentary "(Un)Lucky". She studied at l'Ecole Supérieure des Beaux-Arts and then obtained a diploma in filmmaking at the Sorbonne. She lives between Paris and Algiers where she divides her time between her two passions: painting and cinema.

Festival Participation/Awards

Doha Tribeca Film Festival 2011 - Arab Feature Competition

Production/Sales

Z et Compagnie Productions zetcompagnieproductions@gmail.com